Chairperson's Report

Staff worked hard to manage the challenges of providing overseas services, as well as continuing to provide core services at the home base.

The past year has been one of significant change. The 2013/2014 year commenced with STTARS staff providing overseas services in torture and trauma on Manus Island and Nauru. These services had commenced earlier in the 2013 calendar year.

The Board agreed to auspice the establishment of an overseas service on a short term basis while the overseas entity became legally established. This took considerably longer than expected. The new service called Overseas Services to Survivors of Torture and Trauma (OSSTT) began autonomous operation from 31 March 2014 and STTARS ceased responsibility for the provision of these services from this date.

Staff worked hard to manage the challenges of providing overseas services which was a new experience for all concerned (staff and board members) – as well as continuing to provide core services at the home base.

We are pleased to have been able to offer support to the establishment of the overseas service overseen by then STTARS Director Bernadette McGrath. Following an independent review which was presented to the board in January this year, it was decided not to continue to operate the overseas services. Bernadette left us in April 2014 and became the inaugural Director of OSSTT. The Board acknowledges her contribution as Director of STTARS for over a decade.

We were fortunate to obtain the services of Linda Matthews as the Director on an interim basis pending the appointment of a new CEO. Linda has a long history of leadership roles in senior positions in government - all underpinned by a social justice ethos. I thank Linda for her significant contribution to STTARS. She has kindly agreed to stay with us until there has been a handover to the new CEO.

As from April this year, we have turned our attention to re-focussing on our core services. The independent review (referred to earlier) identified that it would be timely to review the systems, structures and practices that underpin the work of STTARS. Linda has commenced this work.

The provision of overseas services and need to recruit a new CEO has meant heavy demands on the time and energy of Board members – who give their time as volunteers. For example, for some of the year, a small group of Board members met weekly over a period of some months. That Board members were able and willing to do this is an indication of their commitment to STTARS, to the people to whom we provide services and staff. I thank the Board for their dedication.

During this financial year, two board members who have been loyal supporters of STTARS over a long time resigned from the Board. Kevin Liston was associated with STTARS from the very start and joined the Board following his retirement from Australia Refugee Association (ARA). David Shepherd was a Board member for more than 15 years. On behalf of the Board, I sincerely thank both for their commitment to STTARS.

An organisation is only as good as its staff. I offer my sincere thanks to staff for the passion that underpins your work with people who seek our services. I also acknowledge the difficult times that all staff were part of over this period. While many staff were not directly involved in the overseas program, our commitment to it did impact on everyone.

In closing, I want to thank my Board colleagues for their support during a challenging year; David Egege (Deputy Chair), Michael Colmagro (Treasurer), Di Gursansky (Secretary), Nilofar Najimi, Marilyn Lennon and Gido Mapundo.

Director's Report

STTARS is an organisation which has grown rapidly over the past three years since a significant rise in Federal Government funding in 2011.

In April 2014 I agreed to lead STTARS for an interim period while recruitment for a new CEO took place.

At the point that I commenced, STTARS had, under the leadership of previous Director Bernadette McGrath, started and managed a service for people detained on Manus Island and Nauru, as well as continuing the provision of core services.

As Director of STTARS, Bernadette had given 12 years of dedicated service to STTARS and the cause of refugees and asylum seekers. She has continued to work in this area as the first Director of the Overseas Service to Survivors of Torture and Trauma (OSSTT).

A change of leadership of STTARS is an opportune time to reflect on past achievements and plan for the future. At the Board's direction I have undertaken a number of projects and reviews which will help STTARS face future challenges with confidence. Focus areas include improvement of ICT systems and data management, counsellor's therapeutic skills, case management practices, reduction of waiting lists and ensuring work undertaken aligns with funding obligations.

STTARS is an organisation which has grown rapidly over the past three years since a significant rise in Federal Government funding in 2011. This was due to an increase in refugee intake from 13,000 to 20,000 across Australia. This funding is mainly provided by the Department of Health under Australia's Program of Assistance for Survivors of Torture and Trauma (PASTT). We work collaboratively with other agencies across Australia which also receive funding from this program. Without funding from federal and state governments we would be unable to do the work outlined in this report and we thank our funders for their support. They include the Department of Health, Department of Immigration and Border Protection and Department of Social Services.

We also receive funding from the South Australian government through SA Health and the Department of Communities and Social Inclusion.

STTARS has continued to provide direct services to people experiencing the effects of torture and trauma occurring prior to their arrival in Australia. In early 2014 we opened an office in Mt. Gambier as a significant number of people from a refugee background had moved to the area accompanied by a noticeable increase in requests for service.

We also work with other agencies to share our experience. They include not for profit and government agencies which are also working with refugee communities, schools and community organisations. We hope that this will help with understanding the experiences of people who have fled their countries, usually as a result of war or civil conflict with human rights abuses motivated by religious, ethnic or political reasons.

Another way to share our client's stories with the broader community is through events such as the United Nations International Day in Support of Victims of Torture held on 26 June 2014 and 'A Journey of Resilience' photography project in which people described their journey from their homeland to South Australia. The project culminated in an art exhibition on 21 March 2014, which is "Nowruz" the day of the Persian New Year and also Harmony Day in Australia.

Many people are involved in the work of STTARS and I thank them for their untiring efforts in supporting some of the most vulnerable people in our community.

STTARS Board members have given a significant amount of voluntary time and support to the organisation. I thank the Board and staff for their contributions and understand how passionate they are about the work they do. I share the feeling of the many staff who have told me how privileged they feel assisting our clients.

I am optimistic about STTARS future and hope that in the following pages of this Report we have brought to life some of the work we do and explain why it is so important.

Working with Asylum Seekers

The STTARS Asylum Seeker Program provides services for people seeking asylum in South Australia, who are either living in immigration detention or in the community with assistance from immigration support programs.

We provide support through a variety of activities and events including (primarily) one on one counselling to address issues of torture and trauma as well as group counselling for men, women, children and families to assist people in healing.

STTARS Asylum Seeker Program counsellors provide regular counselling sessions at Inverbrackie Alternative Place of Detention (APOD), which was established specifically as a detention centre to provide services to detainees with significant physical or mental health conditions. Having developed good relationships with the various agencies at Inverbrackie, STTARS staff provide counselling to clients who wish to discuss their painful memories. The Asylum Seeker Program also works closely with Adelaide Immigration Transition Accommodation (AITA) to enable asylum seekers who have been re-detained to address their ongoing trauma issues and provide mental health support.

STTARS is passionate about providing opportunities for learning for Asylum Seekers. This year, STTARS staff assisted in the establishment of a 'Men's Groups' English program. Up to fifteen men from many cultural groups, including Tamil, Sri Lankan, Sinhalese, Afghani and Persian, were supported by committed volunteers to learn and practice English.

Over the last 12 months, the Asylum Seeker Program facilitated a number of events which assisted in the reduction of social isolation for survivors. These activities included trips to the beach, national parks, a working produce farm, the South Australian Museum and Art Gallery, and activities with CirKidz. Both staff and survivors alike find value in these activities as they provide opportunities for learning, sharing and developing friendships.

The STTARS Asylum Seeker Program advocates for asylum seekers who receive minimal or indeed no financial support. Working in partnership with service providers in the same sector staff assist clients to obtain necessary material aid. As a means to empower asylum seekers and foster social connections within their community, STTARS staff work closely with survivors building on the development of trust and safety. We embrace opportunities to train professionals in the building of their knowledge base around issues of torture and trauma.

Working with Adults

“I was tortured for many years and spent two years in prison. I watched my friends be tortured and executed. When I came to Australia I felt guilty for being here and I did not trust anyone... I got counselling and went to a support group... I never thought I could trust a stranger, but I did. Now I feel something released from my body and I feel happier and more comfortable.”

30 Year old Afghani man

Being a refugee means one has experienced multiple losses: family members, friends, safety and security, country of origin, cultural roots, a familiar environment, and hopes for the future. This can result in confusion of identity and sometimes loss of sense of self.

STTARS provides counselling to a diverse group of people from countries such as Liberia, Bhutan and Afghanistan, to address issues of torture and trauma and navigate through a myriad of different cultures and customs. This year we offered counselling to equal numbers of men and women. Often one of the first issues faced by counsellors is to assist in the removal of stigma associated with accessing counselling services especially for male clients who may not have had these experiences before.

COLOURS OF LIFE PROJECT

Established by STTARS, “Colours of Life” uses art therapy to help participants to focus on healing from trauma using a strength-based approach. “Colours of Life” is offered to survivors of torture and trauma and is facilitated by artist Siamak Fallah. Siamak works in collaboration with counselling staff to highlight participants’ resilience and life-skills. This program also reinforces prior learnt survival techniques through the medium of art while enhancing the survivor’s sense of self and identity.

In the last twelve months, thirty five “Colours of Life” sessions were held, using art as a powerful and universal means of communication.

“JOURNEY OF RESILIENCE” PHOTOGRAPHY PROJECT

The “Journey of Resilience” photography project was created in partnership with five current STTARS clients. Assisted by photographer Alana Gregory, and supported by our counsellors, participants were encouraged to use photography to explore body awareness and spiritual practices that helped to keep survivors safe on their journey from their homeland to Adelaide. Positive connections to the survivor’s home country were identified and explored.

The project culminated with an exhibition opening at the art gallery “The Mill” on 21 March 2014, a date which fittingly is also Harmony Day and ‘Nowruz’ the day of the Persian New Year. This was a wonderful celebration of the interconnectedness of all survivors on their journey of resilience.

STTARS in the South East

By working with the community STTARS has been able to help clients through effective community engagement.

In early 2014, STTARS established an office in the South East region opening offices in Mount Gambier, Naracoorte and outreach services in Bordertown. The aim was to provide education programs in local schools and work proactively with the local community and agencies to generate a sense of unity and respect throughout the region. STTARS has been at the forefront of education and training about the impacts of torture and trauma on the individual, family and community. STTARS provided training and education within schools in the South East and commenced interagency work involving Disability SA; Uniting Communities; Housing SA; local government services and Migrant Resource Centre.

As a consequence, a strong sense of connection among survivors living in the South East has been reported. Many survivors have said that the community has assisted in their recovery through their sense of welcome and compassion shown.

In response to the growing demand for counselling services for survivors, STTARS has worked with clients from the Middle East, Burma, Sudan, Congo and Thailand. This service is currently offered to individuals, family units and children. Through Narrative Therapy and Mindfulness Training, coping strategies for the survivors have been created to assist with dealing with painful memories of torture and/or war-related trauma.

Working with Children and Young People

COUNSELLING AND SUPPORT

The STTARS Child and Youth Program provides a range of therapeutic programs to address the needs of children and young people from refugee backgrounds with histories of psychological and physiological trauma. Most support is individual and family-based with complimentary group programs also available in schools and youth agencies.

Our counsellors work in collaboration with a number of other agencies to provide counselling, support and advocacy for our clients in over 20 primary and high schools as well as in our clients' homes or at STTARS office.

THERAPEUTIC GROUPS - DRUMMING AND NARRATIVE THERAPY PROGRAMS

Over the past twelve months, 5 Drumming and Narrative Therapy based groups were conducted in a number of local primary schools, as well as at the Adelaide Secondary School of English (ASSOE). Over fifty young people learnt how to become more aware of their stress responses; how to manage their emotions; and how to work together by sharing common ground through their own stories.

YOUTH COUNSELLORS; RESIDENCY AT ADELAIDE SECONDARY SCHOOL OF ENGLISH (ASSOE)

During 2013 and 2014, two Child and Youth Counsellors provided counselling services at ASSOE – the only public secondary school that takes new arrivals in Adelaide. Staff at ASSOE responded positively to the support provided by STTARS, noting that it improved the psychosocial support of students, increased the collaboration of staff and counsellors, and provided much needed consultancy to teaching staff.

TRAINING TO THE SECTOR

STTARS is often requested to provide training about working with young people from a refugee background and have regular scheduled training sessions with universities, youth agencies, the Department of Education and Child Development (DECD) and the mental health sector. Training conducted over the last 12 months included sessions to sixty Master of Social Work students at Flinders University; and a session on "Students of Refugee Background – Effective Response by Schools" to approximately sixty DECD secondary school teaching and support staff. In this particular session, two young people of refugee background shared stories of school experiences that they found helpful.

NETWORKS AND COLLABORATION

Networks and collaboration are integral to good working relationships and best outcomes for clients. Staff are actively involved in the Intensive English Liaison Centre hub meetings, which meet quarterly in each region (North, West, South and East). These consist of key leadership staff from schools, clinical staff from the Department of Education and Childhood Development (DECD) and Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service (CAMHS). These meetings aim to support teaching staff when dealing with the needs of former refugee children and young people.

AGED 20 AND UNDER

STTARS camp programs are run twice yearly for children and adolescents.

In December 2013, STTARS held its annual Peace Camp at the Douglas Scrub campsite in Blewett Springs for 25 children aged between the ages of 6 and 12. The main focus of this camp is for children to engage in positive experiences in a safe and nurturing environment while enjoying and learning about the Australian culture and nature. Many of the children have lived in refugee camps and continue to endure hardships, the camp aims to build relationships so they in turn can cultivate trust and connection with others.

Over 3 days, the children worked in groups to talk about what it means to spend time together. Groups were able to share this through drama, skits and songs. Each child had an opportunity to collect "peace beads" for their bands or bracelets as a means to demonstrate peaceful and kind actions towards one another. The Beach Day Run, which had been organised by the Port Noarlunga Surf Life Saving Club to engage children in beach activities, was another highlight of the Peace Camp.

In April 2014, STTARS held its annual Live Camp in the Adelaide Hills for twenty adolescent clients to promote the theme: "Embrace Life". Working in groups, the young people discussed their feelings around how they 'embrace life'. Drumming, drama and games were used to enhance this sentiment. The young people enjoyed learning mountain bike riding skills with trained staff from Adventure Services at Baptist Care.

We were fortunate to have volunteer assistance from Eliza Percival, who had been employed by Film Aid while working in Sudan. Eliza documented these young people's hopes and dreams in creative ways much to their delight.

The young people reported significant changes following the Live Camp to STTARS staff. These included positive changes in accommodation, improvement to family relationships and greater connection with others.

“ Personally I feel really safe at the moment compared to what it was like for me at home. But I’m worried about my family, because the condition is getting worse everyday... ”

A World Without Torture

On June 26 2014, STTARS hosted its annual event to acknowledge the United Nations International Day in Support of Victims of Torture.

As a member of the International Rehabilitation Council for Torture Victims (IRCT), STTARS is committed to enabling torture and trauma survivors have access to holistic, health-based rehabilitation and legal representation.

'Fighting Impunity' was chosen as the focus for this year's UN International Day in Support of Victims of Torture. STTARS incorporated this subject matter within the structure of the evening.

The event was held at 'Tandanya', the National Aboriginal Cultural Institute. Contributors included Amnesty International Australia, award-winning filmmaker Eliza Percival whose work with FilmAid earned her a Pixel award in 2013 and South Australian Circus Company Artistic Director Joshua Hoare.

Linda Matthews, STTARS Interim Director hosted the evening and Naomi Vaughan, Community Organiser at Amnesty International Australia, presented the keynote address. Vaughan detailed Amnesty's current 'Stop Torture' campaign, which started globally in July 2014. As stated by Vaughan at the event, "Amnesty's position is that torture is never acceptable in any circumstance (and it is not effective). Governments need to prevent torture and ensure survivors are adequately supported, and that perpetrators are brought to justice".

Central to the evening were the stories of three survivors who have worked closely with STTARS counsellors and interpreters. Their stories were presented to align with the themes of 'Homeland', 'Courage', 'Strength' and 'Connection'.

Eliza Percival produced this story telling project as an audio piece in collaboration with the Media Resource Centre.

Creative Director Joshua Hoare, offered a beautiful interplay of visual performance and captivating movement to aid the story telling journey.

Hoare's choreography featured global performing acrobats Calin and Arwen Diamond joined on stage with Alana Gregory. Gregory, one of the few select people in Australia trained in the ancient Indian martial arts of 'Kalari' shared this art form with the audience.

The evening concluded with a performance by the Kurdish Youth Society and West African drummer Bortier Okoe.

‘Body Movement Reconnect’

Following a pilot program in December 2013 this women’s group ran for over eight months from January to August 2014. In collaboration with UnitingCare Wesley Bowden (UCWB) and facilitated by South Australian Circus Company, STTARS female clients from Rwanda, Afghanistan, Burma, Iran, Iraq and Bhutan accessed this fortnightly group. This ‘Body Movement Reconnect’ program was funded by Arts SA as an outreach program to improve social connection for members from the Cultural and Linguistically Diverse Community (CALD) within South Australia.

Established as a movement class for women to ‘Reconnect’ to their body, the group became a social hub for women to spend time with others who had also been through similar experiences of torture or war-related trauma.

The South Australian Circus facilitators made concerted efforts to focus on each individual participant in the group. Each person was monitored by the facilitators as to their capabilities and ability to take part in the group activities, and every session ended with a ‘Goodbye’ in their own language.

Over the course of eight months, between ten to fifteen women from Rwanda, Afghanistan, Burma, Iran, Iraq and Bhutan attended on a fortnightly basis.

BENEFITS FOR THE SURVIVORS HAVE INCLUDED

- Building confidence
- Building focus and flow with hand and eye coordination
- Sense of community
- Acknowledgement of each woman’s journey and respect for each woman in partaking in this program.

OTHER OUTCOMES

Many of the clients reflected upon the social aspect of “being with sisters” and exercising together plus sharing food. Knowing that they were in a supportive environment with women who had shared experiences, assisted with their feelings of safety.

Reflections from Participants

This program was food for my body and spirit and it made me feel good.

When I go there I move my body, I know for sure it is good for me.

My heart is so pure and thanks God for giving me this personality, I can share, I can express from my heart; I like it; I wish all human beings be like that.

What has happened to me in the past... when I remember sometimes it affects me; what can I do?; I am trying to cope with the situation I am in...

Sometimes I don't know what to do and I start crying...after crying I feel more relaxed, crying is my meditation and crying helps me to sleep at night. When I cry with women at the program, I know they are in the same boat as me – they are lots missing family, relatives and thinking of home.

Sisters were there with body problems, telling stories together, laughing.

The program was so good; people from different cultures; different languages. I really liked it.

I thank God for giving us time to be together; sometimes psychological problems make our time difficult, but when we come together and sit together, exercise, share lunch...we enjoy.

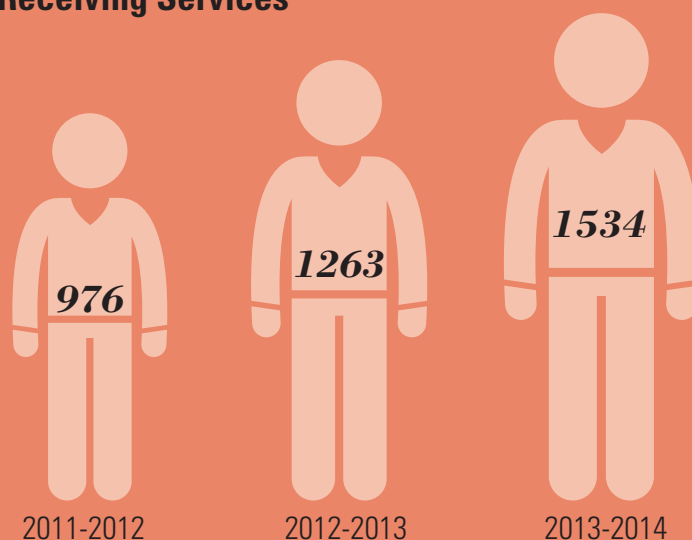

At home my mind is so busy but here I get to know the people and have good time. And these thoughts that I have at home are not bothering me. In here I get rid of that thought.

I appreciate this group. They respect us very much and help us.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 30 JUNE 2014

NOTE 1: SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Preparation

The financial statements are special purpose financial statements prepared in order to satisfy the financial reporting requirements of the Associations Incorporation Act 1985. The Board has determined that the association is not a reporting entity.

In order to satisfy Division 60 of the Australian Charities Not-For-Profit Commission Act 2012 the financial report has been prepared in accordance with the following Australian Accounting Standards:

- AASB 101, Presentation of Financial Statements
- AASB 107, Statement of Cash Flows
- AASB 108, Accounting Policies, Change in Accounting Estimates and Errors,
- AASB 1048, Interpretation of Standard
- AASB 1054, Australian Additional Disclosures

The financial statements, except for the cash flow information, have been prepared on an accruals basis and are based on historical costs. The amounts presented in the financial statements have been rounded to the nearest dollar.

Accounting Policiesa. Income Tax

The association is exempt from income tax pursuant to section 50-40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

b. Plant and Equipment

Plant and equipment is measured on the cost basis and are therefore carried at cost less accumulated depreciation.

Depreciation

The depreciable amount of all fixed assets, including buildings and capitalised lease assets, is depreciated on a straight-line basis over the asset's useful life commencing from the time the asset is available for use.

Gains and losses on disposals are determined by comparing net proceeds with the carrying amount. These gains and losses are recognised in profit or loss when the item is derecognised.

c. Leases

Lease payments for operating leases, where substantially all the risks and benefits remain with the lessor, are recognised as expenses on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

d. Employee Provisions

Provision is made for the Association's liability for employee benefits arising from services rendered by employees to the end of the reporting periods. Employee Benefits have been measured at the amounts expected to be paid when the liability is settled.

The entity provides for long service leave once an employee reaches seven years' service.

e. Other Provisions

Other provisions are recognised by the Association when there is a significant expenditure outlay to be made within the next 12 months. Currently the Association has $268,475 of other provisions which will be utilised in 2014/15 for a significant IT upgrade being undertaken.

f. Cash on Hand

Cash on hand includes cash on hand, deposits held at-call with banks, other short-term highly liquid investments with original maturities of three months or less.

g. Revenue and Other Income

Non-reciprocal grant revenue is recognised in profit or loss when the Association obtains control of the grant and it is probable that the economic benefits gained from the grant will flow to the association and the amount of the grant can be measured reliably.

If conditions are attached to the grant which must be satisfied before it is eligible to receive the contribution, the recognition of the grant as revenue will be deferred until those conditions are satisfied.

Interest revenue is recognised when it is received.

h. Goods and Services Tax (GST)

Revenues, expenses and assets are recognised net of the amount of GST, except where the amount of GST incurred is not recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office (ATO).

Receivables and payables are stated inclusive of the amount of GST receivable or payable. The net amount of GST recoverable from, or payable to, the ATO is included with other receivables or payables in the statement of financial position.

Cash flows are presented on a gross basis. The GST components of cash flows arising from investing or financing activities which are recoverable from, or payable to, the ATO are presented as operating cash flows included in receipts from customers or payments to suppliers.

i. Comparative Figures

When required by Accounting Standards, comparative figures have been adjusted to conform to changes in presentation for the current financial year.

Where the association retrospectively applies an accounting policy, makes a retrospective restatement or reclassifies items in its financial statements, a third statement of financial position as at the beginning of the preceding period is presented in addition to the minimum comparative financial statements.

j. Economic Dependency

The Association receives significant funding from government grants, community grants, donations and fundraising. The extent to which the Association will be able to continue the provision of services at current levels is dependent on the continuation of appropriate levels of government funding, community grants, fundraising activities and donations and the achievement of operating surpluses and positive operating cash flow.
